100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the sirname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bear-skin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of course cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber living in King George's county Va. on Monday the 22nd March, a yellow man named JAMES, about 22 years of age, his fore-teeth wide apart, and cannot speak very quick—had on Virginia cloth clothes and carried off a shaggy great coat, he has a father named Peter Hall, who lives with the widow Morgan, at Oak Hill, Fauquier Co. and his grandfather, old Frederick Hall, is supposed to be living at Mr. Terrett's near Alexandria, and it is likely he may be lurking about there. I will give the above reward for apprehending and securing said fellow so that I get him again, and reasonable charges if brought home.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE.

Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. Missouri and Illinois Bounty Lands

THE subscriber has now for sale a number of the most valuable tracts, in both of those rich and improving bodies of lands, and can supply applicants with any number they may wish, and in any part of either territory. Every person who visits the Western Country, particularly those who intend settling there, should take with them a few quarter sections of those lands; every man who has a young and growing family, and can spare a few hundred dollars, should not miss the present opportunity of getting some of those lands; as it will insure to his children a greater certainty than any other investment he can possibly make for their benefit.—From the immense emigration to both Illinois and Missouri, particularly to the military lands, it is certain there must be a great rise in the price very soon, and those who miss the present opportunity, will never again have a chance to do so well. The patents will be sold very low, for cash, good notes or bonds at short dates, or bank stock in the Central Bank of Georgetown and Washington, and the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown. As I am a large dealer in Military Bounty Lands, I can supply any number that may be required.

GAZETTE AND
Alexandria Daily Advertiser.

PUBLISHED BY SAMUEL SNOWDEN,
ROYAL-STREET.

Daily Gazette, 7 dolls...Country, 5 dolls.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1819.

Mr. SNOWDEN,

I observe of late several of the Baltimore editors are very angry with the citizens of the neighboring towns and cities for the precautionary measures adopted for preventing the introduction of the malignant fever, acknowledged to prevail in Baltimore.

In no instance has their spleen been more compleatly exemplified than in the following, from the pen of the sapient editor of the Patriot.

"The poor Alexandrians have one little schooner from Baltimore under quarantine, perhaps the only arrival there since their non-intercourse law went into operation.—The unfriendly conduct of our neighbors, is something like the Indian's gun—it kicks themselves over."

The poor Alexandrians. Had the citizens of Alexandria been as deeply engaged in the Slave Trade and Patriot Privateering, alias Pirating sub rosa, they probably would not now merit the reproach of poverty.

When they speak of the "poor Alexandrians," we would call their attention to a late Baltimore paper, containing only one hundred and sixty insolvent notices. For the number of arrivals since the non-intercourse law went into operation, we would refer him to our marine list.

The Baltimore editors may be assured that none can more sincerely regret the misfortune of Baltimore in being visited by pestilence, than do the citizens of Alexandria; and the only conditions requisite for the citizens of Baltimore to receive and enjoy all the rights of hospitality in Alexandria are, that they should not be instrumental in introducing among us a malignant disease that may endanger the lives of many of our fellow citizens.

CANDIDUS.

Mr. EDITOR,

If our merchants had been engaged in fitting out privateers, and plundering the vessels of all nations, as well as those of the United States, it is probable we should have been as rich as some of our neighbors, if not quite as saucy.

A POOR ALEXANDRIAN.

By an extract of a letter of a late date from Havana, with which we have been politely furnished, it would seem, if there is no mistake in the destination of the troops there mentioned, that the king of Spain has some views respecting the provinces on our borders lately ceded to us, which do not comport with the provisions of the treaty. There is something very extraordinary in this business. After having racked the brains, and emptied the purse, of the nation, to fit out an expedition, with troops, to South America, for the purpose of rescuing those most extensive and valuable of all his dominions from utter ruin, as it regards the mother country, and abandoning it when just upon the eve of sailing, that he should be able, at a moment's warning, to send out this body of men, for the purpose of securing the Floridas against us, is certainly remarkable. Another inexplicable circumstance is found in the fact, that it does not appear that any censure or mark of disapprobation has been manifested towards the persons connected with the negociation in this country. If this account proves to be correctly stated, and the object of the detachment is the Floridas, there must have been some new and unexpected energy suddenly infused into the Spanish cabinet, the effects of which, we should think, would astonish themselves as well as the rest of the world,

[N. York Daily Advocate.

ECONOMY AND MANUFACTURES.

At Cincinnati, the citizens have carried into effect their previously expressed determination to form a society for the promotion of agriculture, manufactures and domestic economy. General Harrison is the president of the society. They closed their proceedings on the 23d ultimo, with the following declaration, grounded on the opinion that a retrenchment in the expenses of living will be an important mean of alleviating the difficulties and pecuniary embarrassments of the country:

"We will not purchase nor suffer to be used in our families, any imported liquors, fruits, nuts, or preserves of any kind, unless they shall be required in cases of sickness.

"Being convinced that the practice which generally prevails of wearing suits of black as testimonials of respect for the memory of deceased friends is altogether useless, if not improper, while it is attended with a heavy expense, we will not sanction it hereafter in our families, or encourage it in others.

"We will not purchase, for ourselves or our families, such articles as are expensive, & are generally considered as ornamental rather than useful.

"We will abstain from the use of imported goods of every description, as far as may be practicable; and we will give a preference to articles that are of the growth and manufacture of our own country, when the latter can be procured.

"We will not purchase any articles, either of food or dress, at prices that are considered extravagant, or that the citizens generally cannot afford to pay; but will rather abstain from the use of such articles until they can be obtained at reasonable prices.

"We will observe a rigid economy in every branch of our expenditures, & will, in all our purchases, be influenced by necessity rather than convenience, and by utility rather than ornament.

"We believe that the prosperity of the country depends, in a great degree, on a general and faithful observance of the foregoing declaration—we therefore promise that we will adhere to it ourselves, and that we will recommend it to others."

DIVING DRUM.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Johnson made an experiment near the Bath House, with his newly invented Diving Bell, in which he most successfully succeeded. He descended about 25 or 30 feet, and remained underneath the water 40 minutes at a time, until he was requested by the spectators above, to come up.—The contrivance is very simple, and is, withal, a great improvement in diving apparatus.—It consists of, first, a partial covering of plates of sheet iron, attached to a suit, forming a kind of armor, designed to prevent the water pressing him too closely. Over this, he draws on a leathern suit capa-pie, having the head piece pretty large. On either side of the head piece, a pipe enters from above water, the one to convey in fresh, and the other to carry off the air vitiated by breathing. In order to produce a circulation through these pipes, lamps are placed around the nozel of one, which rarify the air, and it ascends, and is carried off through this pipe, and descends in the other, to supply the person under water. This promises much. A person accoutred in the manner above, may remain under an hour; he can move about wherever he pleases; he might enter the cabin of a sunken vessel.

We understand that Mr. J. repeats his experiments this morning, at 11, and at 4 in the afternoon. The charge for witnessing them is nothing. Boats will be ready at Market-street wharf. [Union.

One of the most daring attempts to murder and rob, within our recollection, was made on Saturday night the 28th August, in the vicinity of Athens. The persons engaged in this transaction, are believed to be one Williamson, a carpenter, who had been for some months employed on the college buildings, and a young Irishman named M'Carthy, a painter. Their object was to get a large sum of money that is in the hands of Mr. Asbury Hull, treasurer of the college. We are happy to state that their designs were frustrated. Fortunately no one was injured, but a young gentleman, Mr. Scott, boarding with Mr Hull, who received a few slight wounds. Williamson and M'Carthy are lodged in jail to await their trial. [Georgia Journal.

YELLOW STONE EXPEDITION.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in a neighboring town, to the Editor of the Franklin Gazette.

"My attention has been attracted to a late article in the papers, in which the progress of the steam-boat JOHNSON is noticed; and I perceive she was off Franklin, Missouri, on the 6th ultimo.

"This magnificent undertaking of the government is rendered doubly so by the adoption of steam-boat navigation. Perhaps if this description of conveyance is better suited to any one section of the world than another, it is to the vast, and, I had like to have said, interminable water-courses of the western division of our country. 'The current's thwarting course' ceases to be any barrier to the progress of this description of vessel; and 'tis there the currents flow; and 'tis there human labor, and sweat, and toil, must have been expended for ages, had not this unrivalled design been perfected; and by the movements of its own interior, suspended all this toil, and bid the laboring boatman look on and admire this victory over the force of the current, and his own freedom from the labors of conquering it.

"The certainty, as well as celerity of steam-boat navigation; the cheaper rates of transportation which it insures; the satisfaction and comfort of passengers, all unite to make it an object which must continue to rise in importance, in the estimation of the people of these vast regions, and all having intercourse with them.

"So far as the government of the United States is concerned, in its intercourse with that portion of its territory, (and it is deeply concerned) steam-boats must continue to command its attention. For all the purposes of transportation, whether of army or of Indian supplies, or munitions of war, this mode is the best. It is the best, whether the progress of the expedition, the economy in the expense, or the certainty of the period or periods of arrival at the points of destination, be consulted. But these, however important in their place, are, in this stage of the experiment, far outweighed in a national point of view (and this ought never to be lost sight of.) This view embraces the encouragement of one of the grandest and most useful inventions of man, which, whilst it delights the admiration of our countrymen, and contributes to the advantage and comfort of the travelling parts of them, attracts at the same time and rivets the attention of the old world to this wonderful contrivance; and sets monarchs at work to imitate the efforts and developements of a REPUBLICAN genius.

"Who does not wish success to the whole scheme? Who does not think of the herculean undertakings of the JOHNSONS with admiration? Who does not wish success to these men, not on account of their enterprize, only, but of their valor, their patriotism? Not a wordy valor; not a boisterous patriotism, but practical and pure; such, I mean, as enveloped them in victory, and has given renown to American intrepidity throughout the world; and which can never be forgotten till time shall moulder history down to the dust, and bury the noblest deeds of man in one common ruin, with the final overthrow of the world. But I must come out of Moravian town, and from the banks of our Thames.

"When this expedition was fitting, I now and then heard of "detentions," of "apprehensions," from their occasional recurrence, that the expedition must be abandoned. I thought I saw in some a half-willingness to abandon the steam-boat part of the design, and adopt the old song of "row brothers, row." But I put them all down to the ardor of the American character. I applauded the spirit, which, in such a work, became impatient of delay. But I knew that Atkinson, and Jessup, and Johnson, were there. And I doubted not but the two first, who are no less distinguished for their intelligence than their bravery, would see the vastness of the undertaking which rested on the shoulders of the third, that suitable allowance would be made for any accidental mishaps, to which such extended and diversified operations were liable, and which no mind but an Omniscient one could foresee; and no power, but Omnipotent power could immediately control.

"To my great gratification, the whole, at last, moved off. But what if they could only have made ready, this year, it would only have been like acting under orders for the next. As to the losses or evil consequences of such a delay, they would have been trivial, compared with the abandonment of the steam-boat part of the great design. The year, however, is not lost, nor the steam-boat part of the scheme abandoned; but the JOHNSON has passed Franklin in all the grandeur of her mysterious movements; full of health and spirits, pointing, as she goes, the attention of the thousands who witness her wonderful progress, to the government of a country, of which too many of the hapless beings who behold her know too little, but who are approximating every year, nearer and nearer, to the point of a full observation, from which will be perceived the majesty and mildness of our laws, the justice and humanity of the government. And these must strike them with lessons of admiration and affection, that will eventuate in their attachment to them all.

Our youthful, but already ripened, secretary of war stands identified, specially so, with this grand expedition; under his guidance we may look for the consequences of which it is susceptible."

New-York, September 15.

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

The fine, fast-sailing ship Robert Fulton, captain Holdridge, arrived here yesterday, from Liverpool, which port she left on the 12th ult. By her we have received London papers to the evening of the 9th. The cotton market at Liverpool continued steady.

American New Six per cents, at London, August 7, 96 a 99; 3 per cents, 61 a 61½.

British Stocks, August 9.

Three per cent Consols, 71½; Omnium, 4 3-8 pm.

The British ship of war Blossom, from Lima, arrived at Deal 5th August, with a large sum in specie.

It is stated that Maret, duke of Bassano, has obtained permission to return to France.

The London Courier remarks—"It is evident by our accounts from the disturbed districts, the disaffected, though checked, are not subdued, and it will require a long and steady perseverance in the course which has accomplished the former, finally to produce the latter.

Another meeting is determined upon at Manchester.

Liverpool, August 11.

"Our cotton market is very steady, and there is no appearance of any decline, and we have no doubt but 15d will soon be realized for real good cotton, and perhaps more. But we should caution you against being too sanguine. The India cotton is a rod over our heads, and we must act with judgment. The sales, thus far in the present week, of all sorts, are 4500 bags. There is little doing in any thing else.—Ashes are freely offered at our quotations. Tobacco has improved a little, and we hope may further improve.—There is no prospect of the ports opening for wheat & flour the present year; the weather is very fine, and the harvest getting in.

"Prices.—Cotton, Upland, 12½ a 14¾d; Orleans, 13 a 16d; Tennessee, 11 a 12½d; tobacco, 3d a 6d; rice, 18s a 22s; flour, 30s a 36s; pot ashes, 35s a 39s; pearls, 35s a 39s; tar, 13s a 15s; turpentine, 1os 6d a 13s.

SENTENCE,

Pronounced by Judge Livingston, on Monday, in the Circuit Court, on George Brown.

You have been convicted of the murder of John Lewis, and on testimony which has left no doubt of your guilt. This crime, at all times, one of the greatest which can be committed, has been perpetrated by you, under circumstances of very peculiar aggravation. The object of your violence was master of a vessel, in which he had placed you second in command. In this situation it was your indispensable duty, not only to have abstained yourself from every outrage against his person, but to have been foremost in protecting him from that of others. But, disregarding the relation in which you stood, and violating the confidence which had been reposed in you, there is too much reason to believe, not only that you were an active agent in the catastrophe which took place, but that you contrived and advised, in part, the scheme of iniquity, which was but too successfully executed on the high seas. The manner, too, in which the horrid deed was executed, is well calculated to call forth feelings of the most lively indignation. Having thrown the unfortunate victim of your cupidity into the sea, it was immediately discovered by his shrieks and repeated cries for help, that he was still alive, notwithstanding the blow which you had inflicted on him. Here was not only a most pathetic appeal to your humanity and compassion, but an opportunity afforded you by a kind Providence for reflection, under circumstances which ought to have arrested the most hardened offender in the career of guilt. But turning a deaf ear to the dying supplications of a man who had never offended you, and who had so many claims on your protection, you make not a single effort to assist him, but permit him to perish, without being at all moved by the awful scene which was passing before you. For this act, at the bare relation of which humanity shudders, no palliation whatever is offered on your part. No injury had ever been received by you from the deceased—no thirst of revenge—no intemperance of passion hurried you on, which although they would have furnished no excuse nor justification for so atrocious an act, might have excited some commiseration for the unhappy condition to which you have reduced yourself. But the murder is committed without provocation, in cold blood, and in presence of your whole crew, with no other motive than that of obtaining possession, at the price of human blood, of a valuable property which had been entrusted to your care, almost as much as to that of the unfortunate man whose life, in all probability would have been spared if he had been base enough to have become an associate with you in the crime and disgrace of running away with the vessel and cargo of his owner. The only motive which can be assigned for your conduct, is scarcely less criminal than the act for which you are to suffer; nor have you any excuse, if any could be offered, for suffering yourself to be led away by it. In the prime of life, and with good health, you could legally have failed, by an honorable and lawful diligence, to obtain a property, if not as great as this one you were then in pursuit of, at least large enough to have rendered you independent and easy in your circumstances.

Not only have you deprived the deceased of his life, and exposed your own to an ignominious death, but you have involved the whole crew in the guilty transaction; who although they may never be overtaken by the ministers of the law, must pass a life rendered miserable by the reproaches of their own consciences, and by the continual apprehension of expiating their crime by a violent and disgraceful death. If, after imbruing your hands in innocent blood, you had so far relented as to have restored the vessel and cargo to those to whom they belonged, your guilt would not have been as great as it now is.—But this was not done. Scarcely is one capital offence consummated, before you commit another. Captain Lewis had hardly drawn his last breath, before we find you determining to assume his name, and taking the command of the Retrieve; not for the purpose of conducting her to her destined port, and thus making some amends for your past conduct, but with the intention of piratically and feloniously running away with both vessel and cargo. This intention was immediately executed by going to a Spanish port, where you could not have been admitted to an entry, without the commission of perjury, and where you personated the deceased master, and were sacrificing the property for your own benefit, and that of the crew, when most providentially the whole transaction is disclosed by one of your accomplices, with whom you had probably disputed about a division of the spoil.—On his testimony you were arrested by the Spanish government, and have been brought for trial to this country, in a vessel of the United States, which the President thought it his duty to dispatch to Omoa for that purpose. This trial you have had, and have been assisted by counsel of your own choice. If a doubt had been entertained of your guilt, the jury who were empannelled for your trial would most certainly have acquitted you. Nothing could have been more agreeable to the court than such a verdict, if it had been possible to find it consistent with the testimony which was given in behalf of the United States. If you had been acquitted on this indictment, a conviction certainly must have followed for piratically running away with the vessel and cargo, for which you were also presented by the grand jury; and of which there can be no doubt, from the evidence given on your trial for murder, you were also guilty.—The punishment on such conviction would have been the same as that which the law has ordained for the offence of which you stand convicted.

It is truly painful to see a young man, not yet twenty-two years old, standing at the bar of justice, to receive the awful sentence which is every where pronounced on those who maliciously take away the life of a human being. But whatever may be your guilt, it is impossible for the court to perform its duty on this occasion, without commiserating your situation—and the best evidence which it can give of those feelings, is to exhort you to employ the short time which you have to remain among us in preparing for your appearance at a bar where you will have to undergo a trial infinitely more important than any which can take place before an earthly tribunal; and in the presence of a Being who cannot err in the sentence which he will pronounce. From this sentence there can be no appeal, and by it your condition in the world to come will be forever and irrevocably fixed. Born and educated as you have been, in a christian land, you have no doubt been instructed in the great truths of our religion. You cannot, therefore, be ignorant, that to be prepared for this awful trial, you must repent while here of your sins—ask forgiveness of your God, and believe in our blessed Saviour Jesus Christ. During this preparation you cannot do better than to be reading the bible, which will be put into your hands, and where you will find every thing on which your happiness hereafter depends, explained with a simplicity and precision, which cannot be misunderstood by the most ordinary capacity.

Let not the hope of pardon here induce you to postpone the preparation which has just been recommended. It is not for the Court to anticipate what may be done by the President of the U. States in your behalf. Should he exercise his prerogative of pardon, you will never have cause to regret that you had thus employed your time—but if he shall not arrest the sentence of the law, you may forever have reason to repent of neglecting the advice which has just been given to you.

It only remains for the Court to perform its painful duty of rendering judgment on the verdict of the jury.

The sentence of the law is, and such is the judgment of this court, that you be taken from the place where you now stand, to the place from whence you last came, and that from thence you be carried to the place of execution,* and be there hung by the neck until you are dead—and may God forgive you and have mercy on your soul.

* The day of execution is fixed for Friday, six weeks. [Advocate.

Hill and Dale, April 20.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 18 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary out-house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS. { Rev. Wm Hawley, Washington,
Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria,
Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria,
Rev. Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publecation will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26

For Sale,

TWO tracts of valuable land in Durham Parish, Charles County, Maryland opposite Nanjemoy Reach—one of these tracts of land is bounded on one side by the Potomac, has a valuable fishery, and contains about 360 acres of bottom, with a quantity of wood that ought to be cut.—The other is about three-fourths of a mile from the river, from one half to two thirds covered with wood and valuable white-oak timber, and contains about 700 acres. Both tracts have an orchard of choice fruit. The above land will be sold at Charles County Court, on THURSDAY in the third week of August next at Public sale, if not sold before, at private sale.—The terms will be made known at the sale. Timber or wood may be purchased any time previous to the sale
